

Privacy Notice for Enquirers, Applicants and Students

This privacy notice explains how Birmingham City University (BCU') collects, uses and shares your personal data, and your rights in relation to the personal data we hold.

This notice concerns our processing of personal data of enquirers, applicants and current students. It endeavours to cover the main journeys of those three populations. A suite of privacy notices, some of which relate to the specifics of personal data processing of some student journeys, are available at Privacy Notices | Birmingham City University. A separate notice 'Privacy Notice for Development and Alumni Relations' is available for alumni including former students, staff and current and prospective supporters. We will respect any personal data you share with us and keep it safe.

BCU is the data controller for your personal data and is subject to the General Data Protection Regulation (the 'GDPR'), Data Protection Act 2018, Data (Use and Access) Act 2025 and Privacy and Electronic Communications Regulations 2003.

In order to operate as a University BCU sometimes needs to collect information about you. BCU is committed to being transparent about how it collects and uses that data and to meeting its data protection obligations. This privacy notice explains the following:

- Education and employment information (including the school(s), sixth form college(s) and other colleges or universities you have attended and places where you have worked, the courses you have completed, dates of study and examination results);
- Other personal background information collected during the admissions process, e.g. whether you have been in care, your socio-economic classification and details of your parents' occupation and education;
- The collection of Caller Line Identification (CLI), call recordings and linked website journey data as part of Clearing or other marketing and student recruitment activities.
- Examination records (including records relating to assessments of your work, details of examinations taken, and your predicted and actual examination grades);
- Information captured in your student record including relating to studies and placements regarding, for example, progression, attendance records, achievement of milestones, Fitness to Practice processes, Fitness to Study processes, and progression reports;
- Visa, passport and immigration information (such as the UK government Home Office, the police);
- Fees and financial support record (including records relating to the fees paid, Student Loan Company transactions and financial support, scholarships, and sponsorship) – please see the Privacy Notice for Financial Processes for more information.
- Supervision, teaching, and tutorial activities; and training needs analysis and skills acquisition records;
- Placement and internship record or study at another institution as an established component of your course of studies, or career development opportunity;
- Information you have shared with, or information about your engagement with, University services, such as accommodation, careers support, Student Support Centre, Student and Academic Services, Student Governance, Legal Services / Information Management, University sport facilities and student services, such as welfare services, including Mental Health and Wellbeing, Money and Childcare Advice and counselling services;
- Information about your use of library facilities, including borrowing and fines;
- Information about your use of facilities and collections provided by the University;
- Information about student governance topics, disciplinary actions (including academic misconduct), dispensations from regulations, and about any appeals, extenuating circumstances and or any complaints raised and review requests raised and the outcomes and consequences;
- Information shared via Report and Support or other systems;
- Attendance at University degree and award ceremonies;
- Attendance at other university events;
- Information about your use of our information and communications systems, including all IT systems, CCTV and building access information;

- Assessment activities including academic integrity indicators such as cross-matching assignment contents and reviewing draft versions of assignments made when using BCU provided software.
- Your participation in BCU-related competitions.
- Your GPS location if you travel for study purposes within scope of BCU insurance and 'check in' to a location via the designated app / website.
- If you participate in a teaching session, assessment or event in a way that includes you in some kind of recording or photography.
- If you are employed as a temporary worker by an external company and placed on assignments at BCU, information related to your employment with BCU's assigned agency for temporary workers for example, Manpower, Pertemps etc.

We may also process the following "special categories" of more sensitive personal data:

- Information about your race or ethnicity, sexual orientation and religious beliefs;
- Information about your health, including any disability and/or medical condition;
- Information about criminal convictions and offences (if applicable to your course).

Special category data is not used to assess applications, unless it relates to suitability for a course such as where it would prevent someone from entering a regulated profession and will only be used for the reasons set out in section 5 below.

3. How we process (collect, use, store, externally share) your personal data

We will use your data to keep a record of your relationship with the University and to deliver a range of education and support services, including:

- Responding to enquiries received via the University's internet site, telephone services, enquiry management tools and post;
- Handling and assessing applications for study, and for purposes related to applications. This includes assessing eligibility for funding and financial status, enabling contextualised admissions, and progression from other educational institutions including further education colleges.
- Purposes connected with student studies, including teaching, academic assessment and supervision, pastoral support, student welfare (including Fitness to Practice (FtP) and Fitness to Study (FtS)), counselling, funding and financial support, research related administration, discipline, the provision of facilities and services e.g. access to IT facilities, libraries, accommodation, sports facilities etc., and to enable you to participate in your course including practical sessions;
- Your personal data including your ID photograph will be processed for the purpose of monitoring student attendance and maintaining a digital attendance register
- Registering and maintaining a record of academic achievement, including calculation, publication and certification of examination results;
- Providing information on examinations and results;
- Organisation of award ceremonies;
- Provision of references;
- Administration of fees and charges, grants, loans, scholarships, bursaries and sponsorships;
- Sending communications from the University by post, email, social media or other electronic means;
- Contacting you by telephone;
- Providing course and other study information, including additional service information such as accommodation and ancillary service information;
- Telling you about the University, University events and sending you invitations;

- Giving you information about opportunities that we think may be of interest to you including careers advice, training, job vacancies, coaching / mentoring, auditions, information on our alumni association, volunteering and competitions;
- Sending you communications from relevant schools;
- Giving you information about further study opportunities, including the availability of postgraduate fee discounts and scholarship;
- Asking you to complete relevant surveys including, but not limited to, the Graduate Outcomes Survey or Postgraduate Research Experience Survey which are sent after the completion of your studies;
- Process prize draws e.g. related to surveys.
- Communications to meet statutory requirements;
- For administration purposes to maintain a secure database of your details, including updating any preference changes received from you;
- To facilitate travel linked to BCU;
- To undertake analytics, analysis and research so that we may improve the services offered by BCU;
- To undertake analytics, analysis and research so that we may inform feedback and or support to individual students and academic staff;
- To undertake analytics, analysis and research for submissions required by external parties such as regulators including publishing the research where necessary;
- To undertake analytics, analysis and research for student recruitment marketing attribution, insights, service improvement;
- Using information in aggregate (so that no individuals can be identified) for strategic development;
- We may use records of your interactions with BCU to help us to personalise our service to you and direct resources appropriately;
- We track email communications including views, opens and clicks, to help us improve our email communications and identify individuals engaging with our communications. We may add this data to your individual record and use it to personalise the communications we send to you.
- To maintain relevant suppression lists.
- To facilitate volunteer opportunities and liaise with the voluntary organisations about any issues that arise during those opportunities.

BCU may use artificial intelligence (AI) where it may bring benefits to the university and the university community of students, applicants, enquirers, alumni and staff. Please be assured that BCU will only use AI where it has been assessed as safe and appropriate. BCU makes every effort to ensure that it meets its' legal obligations under data protection laws when using AI tools in order to protect your personal data.

4. On what basis do you process my personal data?

When we process your information, we rely on the following lawful bases:

- Because we have a contractual obligation to consider applications and to deliver courses and examinations to enrolled students. We will need to process your data in order to meet our obligations or exercise rights under our contract with you;
- Where we have a legal obligation. For example, to meet our duties under equality laws or when we are required by law to provide data to various Government departments through the Higher Education Statistics Agency (HESA);
- Where it is necessary to meet a task in the public interest. We may need to process your data for the purpose of teaching and related activities, such as academic assessment and supervision. Teaching is a task that we perform in the public interest in order to fulfil our responsibility as an exempt charity for promoting the advancement of learning;

- Where it is necessary to meet our legitimate interests or the legitimate interests of others. Examples included, but are not limited to, the following:
 - o inviting you to take part in surveys or enabling third parties to conduct surveys on our behalf;
 - o asking you to provide additional information; and
 - o notifying you of changes to course information.
- There may be situations where we ask for your consent to process your data e.g. where we ask you to confirm if you want to hear about other opportunities at BCU (you will always be able to opt out of receiving such communications).
- Where it is necessary in order to protect your or another person's vital interests (i.e. an interest which is essential for your or their life).

If you fail to provide certain information when requested for the purposes of assessing applications, delivering courses and or examinations, we may not be able to meet our contractual obligation to consider your application, to deliver the course to you or to comply with our other legal obligations.

We will only process your personal data for the purposes for which we collected it, unless we reasonably consider that we need to use it for another related reason and that reason is compatible with the original purpose. If we need to use your data for an unrelated purpose, we will seek your consent to use it for that new purpose.

Please note that we may process your data without your knowledge or consent where this is required or permitted by law.

5. How we use special category data and criminal conviction data

Special category data and criminal conviction data require a higher level of protection. Listed below are examples of processing activities that we regularly undertake in respect of these types of data. In addition to the activities listed below, it may sometimes be necessary to process this sort of information for exceptional reasons, for example, because it is necessary to protect your vital interests or those of another person. We may also process your special category data to identify your eligibility for certain scholarships aimed to address underrepresentation.

Health (including disability)

We will process data about your health where it is necessary to consider and provide advice, support and reasonable adjustments and/or to monitor equal opportunities. Processing of this nature is necessary to meet contractual obligations, other legal obligations or is allowed in law such as through substantial public interest conditions. There may also be situations where we ask for your explicit consent to share information about your health. The term health encompasses all health such as but not limited to physical health, including maternity related topics, mental health and disabilities. The University may also hold confidential data on a student's health where it is necessary to do so for the provision of specific services, such as counselling, accommodation, sports facilities and practical sessions related to your course. Health information is also used for health and safety purposes, for example for risk assessments on and off campus and personal emergency evacuation plans (PEEPS) on and off campus, including in university accommodation.

Criminal Offence Data

Data about criminal convictions or barring decisions will only be collected where it is necessary.

Some details of a student's criminal record may be held where it is necessary for admissions, for the purpose of determining eligibility to train for a particular profession or if the police / security services decide that the university should be aware of and hold such information. If a course requires additional screening, you will be advised before the screening takes place. Processing of this nature is necessary to meet our legal obligations and will be subject to suitable safeguards. Criminal offence data may also be processed for the purposes of safeguarding you or others including, but not limited to, on campus and in university accommodation. The assessment of a risk posed may involve sharing your declaration with limited, relevant staff including, for example, senior representatives of key departments such as Admissions, Student Governance, Student Services and the relevant School. See the Appropriate Policy Document at the end of the Data Protection Policy for more information about when and why BCU processes criminal offence data.

Racial or ethnic origin, sexual orientation and religious belief

Data about your racial and ethnic origin, religious belief or sexual orientation will only be processed where you have volunteered it and where we need to process it in order to meet our statutory obligations under equalities and other legislation. This processing is considered to meet a substantial public interest, and we will seek to anonymise the data as soon as practicable.

6. Organisations that BCU shares personal data with and vice versa

- 6.1 We may share your personal data with any relevant staff, business areas, departments and schools within BCU where necessary in order to provide you with provision, services and support and to enable BCU to carry its necessary functions.

For the purposes referred to in the privacy notice, BCU and other organisations share your personal data for the purposes of delivering educational and ancillary services or in order to perform our contractual and other legal responsibilities. We may, where relevant and necessary, need to share your personal data with or receive your personal data from the following types of organisations:

30. Organisations providing services such as IT systems, telephony systems and all administrative systems as part of your BCU journey as an enquirer, applicant, student and former student.
31. Organisations providing University-sponsored services including student surveys;
32. Organisations to process data rights requests, for example, if you use a third party to submit a subject access request on your behalf.
33. Organisations such as affiliate and partner institutions, apprenticeship employers, student status verifications, to assist with safeguarding of yourself or others, to uphold processes regarding appropriate conduct or to assist with topic regarding courses linked to regulated professions. This includes the HEAT Service, which is hosted by the University of Kent.
34. Organisations, where we have assessed that the data sharing is likely to be of benefit to you and is related to studying at BCU or gaining employment.
35. Organisations providing voluntary opportunities for BCU students.
- 36.
37. Placement providers
38. Professional statutory regulatory bodies (PSRBs) for relevant courses;
39. Public bodies, including but not limited to the police, the UK government Home Office; HM Revenue and Customs; and local authorities;
40. Public Health England, Public Health Birmingham and Birmingham City Council (usually this is anonymous statistics and personal data would only be shared if it was mandated and there was a lawful basis for it);

46. Tribunals;
47. UK and overseas governmental bodies or agencies responsible for immigration (including UKVI), student loans, verification of identification, and security including cybersecurity, radicalisation and counter-terrorism;
48. UKRI

Where information is shared with third parties, we will seek to share the minimum amount necessary.

If we use a third party as detailed above, we will always ensure that appropriate controls are in place to ensure data is shared legally. If you are considering applying for a placement in the USA please read section 7 about where your personal data is stored.

We use third party processors that act on our behalf to assist us with providing our services. If we share information with a third party data processor, we will always ensure that appropriate controls are in place to ensure data is safe, it is only used for the allowed purpose and it is permanently deleted after the task has been completed. All third-party service providers that process data on our behalf are required to take appropriate security measures to protect your data in line with our policies. We do not allow them to use your data for their own purposes. We permit them to process your data only for specified purposes and in accordance with our instructions. BCU ensures that we have appropriate contracts in place with any third party data processors to ensure there is appropriate confidentiality and security of your personal data.

An example of a third-party processor used by BCU is WhatsApp Business. We share personal data with WhatsApp Business under the lawful bases of for the performance of a contract and public task.

6.2 BCU's data sharing with BCU Students' Union (BCUSU)

BCUSU is a separate legal entity to Birmingham City University (BCU). The University will share personal data with BCUSU to facilitate students' membership and so that current students can vote in BCUSU elections and join societies. Examples of data that is shared include student number, name, course, year of study, contact details (BCU email address and phone number) and date of birth. The University will share personal data with the Students' Union to enable the Students' Union to analyse gaps in student involvement and continually amend their services so that the Students' Union can be relevant to as many people as possible. Examples of data sharing include dependent / carer status, nationality, country of birth, country of domicile (i.e. country you live in), sex (if a student has provided it to BCU), gender identity (if a student has provided it to BCU), fee status (e.g. whether fee payments are up-to-date), town /area in which a student lives, distance or on campus learner and an Erasmus indicator, or equivalent. The Students' Union does not share this data with anyone else.

In addition to the personal data listed above, BCU shares the following personal data with BCUSU for equal opportunity and monitoring purposes: sexual orientation, ethnicity, religious beliefs and disability status. This information is only used for equal opportunity and monitoring purposes and is only accessible to limited staff. The Students' Union does not share this data with anyone else.

The lawful basis for sharing this personal data is public interest with the conditions of processing being Data Protection Act 2018 Schedule 1 Part 2 Substantial Public Interest Conditions (6) Statutory etc. and government purposes and (8) the equality of opportunity or treatment and opportunity.

7. Where is my personal data stored?

The secure databases BCU uses to store your data is kept in the UK. However, some of the personal data we process about you may be transferred to, and stored at, a destination outside the European Economic Area ("EEA"), for example where it is processed by staff operating outside the EEA who work for us or for one of our suppliers, or where personal data is processed by one of our suppliers who is based outside the EEA or who uses storage facilities outside the EEA.

In these circumstances, your personal data will only be transferred on one of the following bases:

- a. a European Commission decision provides that the country or territory to which the transfer is made ensures an adequate level of protection; or
- b. where the transfer is subject to one or more of the "appropriate safeguards" for international transfers prescribed by applicable law (e.g. standard data protection clauses adopted by the European Commission); or

- c. there exists another situation where the transfer is permitted under applicable law (e.g. where we have your explicit consent).

Please note that the USA is not a country which the European Commission considers as automatically providing an adequate level of protection for personal data. Therefore, if you choose to apply for a placement in the USA, whilst BCU will ensure that the transfer of your personal data to that placement is legal according to UK data protection laws, it will not have the level of protection that it would have within the UK data protection laws.

8. How we keep your personal data safe

BCU is committed to safeguarding your personal data. Whenever you provide such information, we are legally obliged to use your information in line with all applicable laws concerning the protection of personal information, including the Data Protection Act 2018 and the General Data Protection Regulation. In relation to all our records these are held within a dedicated and secure database system hosted on a secure network with access limited on a need-to-know basis. A range of administrative, technical, physical security controls are used to ensure a robust approach to protecting data held on University IT systems, and when approved transfers between third parties are undertaken. For more information a copy of BCU's overarching Data Protection Policy is available on the policies page of the BCU website.

9. How long is your personal data kept?

We will hold your personal information within a secure dedicated database for as long as is necessary to provide educational and ancillary services to you. Where you have indicated you no longer wish to receive any services your information will be retained and securely and permanently destroyed in accordance with the BCU retention and destruction policy.

Where a record has not been used and or there is no active engagement (for example there has been no response to required correspondence), BCU may class the record as dormant or may delete the record in accordance with the BCU retention and destruction policy. When appropriate BCU will email you to confirm your preferences and to notify you of any intention to delete your records if no response is received.

10. Will you be contacted for marketing purposes?

BCU will only send you marketing emails or contact you via your selected preference selections where you have expressly agreed to this. We may personalise the message content based upon information you have provided. You can update your details and your communication preferences during enrolment tasks, by contacting Academic Services or at any time:

11. Your rights

You have the right to correct or update your personal data at any time. If you are a BCU student, your main contact for this is the Student Support Centre. If you are a BCU staff member please use ERP or log a ticket on the HR Helpdesk. If you are neither, please contact your main contact at BCU. If you cannot do that, you can contact informationmanagement@bcu.ac.uk. You may have the right to have your data deleted, the right to restrict processing, the right to object and / or the right to data portability and you have the right to know about and challenge automated decision making and profiling. Follow the links to find out whether those rights apply in these circumstances. To do any of those things or if you have followed the links but would like clarification, please email informationmanagement@bcu.ac.uk.

You have the right to request to see the personal data we hold about you. You can submit a Subject Access Request (SAR) in accordance with the Subject Access Requests \(SAR\) Procedure.

12. How to ask questions or raise concerns.

If you have read this privacy notice and would like further information, you're welcome to contact our Data Protection Officer by emailing informationmanagement@bcu.ac.uk or by post to: Data Protection Officer, Information Management Team, Legal Services, Birmingham City University, Floor 1, Joseph Priestley Building, 6 Cardigan Street, Birmingham, B4 7BD, or by phoning 0121 202 4597.

If you are not content with how we handle your information, please follow our Data Protection Complaints Procedure. If you have used that procedure and are unsatisfied with the response you have received, you then have the right to complain directly to the Information Commission (IC). You can find out more about this on the IC's complaints webpage.

13. Where can you get more information?

Birmingham City University's Data Protection Policy and Appropriate Policy Document
Birmingham City University's Privacy Notices
The Information Commissioner's Office \(ICO\) information for members of the public
Subject Access Request Procedure

14. Changes to this privacy notice

This privacy notice may be updated from time to time so you may wish to check it each time you submit personal information to BCU. The date of the most recent versions will appear on this page (see version control). We encourage you to check our privacy notices from time to time to ensure you understand how your data will be used and to see any minor updates. If material changes are made to the privacy notice, for instance how we would like to use your personal data, we will provide a more prominent notice (including, for certain services, email notification or correspondence of privacy notice changes). We may also notify you in other ways from time to time about the processing of your personal data.
